14. General Objectives

The curricular unit of Succession Law has the general objectives of studying the "succession process" determined by the death of someone and aimed at determining the destination to be given to the assets (material and immaterial) that make up the respective heritage. In essence, the process is regulated by the will or succession pacts and by the law on a coercive basis (legitimate succession) or subsidiary (legitimate succession).

15. Specific Objectives

Succession law specifically deals with essential moments and aspects of the succession process, namely the moment and place of the opening of the succession, the individualization and call of succession, the administration of vacant assets, the mode and form of acceptance or rejection of the call; the administration and sharing of the hereditary assets, all added by the specific regulation of legitimate succession, legitimate succession and testamentary succession.

16. Skills to be acquired

As a result of its own content, the study of inheritance law has the pedagogical objective of transmitting to students knowledge of the fundamental concepts of the succession process, enabling them to assess and decide on all questions of a theoretical or practical nature that may arise in this regard during the course of exercise of your professional life (and beyond).

17. Teaching Methodology

The adopted methodology is based on the existence of theoretical classes and practical classes destined, the first ones, to the exposition and deepening of the subjects and the second ones, to their exemplification and implementation. Two continuous assessment tests are carried out and oral and written works are presented.

18. Course Unit Program

O programa disciplinar está dividido por três títulos a que correspondem, respetivamente, as seguintes matérias: Parte Geral, Sucessão Legal e Sucessão Testamentária.

A parte geral, por seu turno compreende o estudo do fenómeno sucessório em termos gerais, relacionados com o conceito, âmbito e espécies regulamentadas, bem como o respetivo conteúdo.

A Sucessão legal, refere-se, naturalmente, às duas formas de intervenção da lei na regulamentação do processo sucessório (sucessão legítima e sucessão legitimária).

A Sucessão testamentária tem por objeto o regime jurídico dos testamentos, em todos os aspetos e modalidades que esse regime envolve (capacidade, forma, conteúdo, efeitos, validade, revogabilidade, caducidade).

19. Assessment Methods

A avaliação dos alunos é feita essencialmente através de testes de frequência obrigatória, realizados no fim do semestre, complementados por um exame final integrado por uma prova escrita e por uma prova oral. Durante o ano letivo os alunos participam nas aulas práticas, igualmente utilizadas para avaliar o grau de preparação e de interesse dos alunos que deverão também participar em testes intercalares e na apresentação de trabalhos.
