14. General Objectives

It is intended to give the student the most complete view possible of the panorama of thought and architecture throughout the 20th century. XIX and XX. In this way, reflection will be promoted around the thought and practice of architecture and the city, in order to promote a linked understanding of modernity and contemporaneity.

15. Specific Objectives

Relate the Theory of Architecture with other areas of knowledge and thought, motivating the student's understanding of the pluridisciplinarity of architecture and its practice, based on reading the thoughts and works of architects or groups of homogeneous thought.

16. Skills to be acquired

Knowledge of architecture as a cultural and historical phenomenon. Knowledge of architecture as a scientific phenomenon, taking into account the sources and importance, validity and use, methods and research techniques. Contribute to the maturation of your critical sense, duly substantiated.
Summon the inevitable understanding between Theory and Practice.

17. Teaching Methodology

Theoretical classes where the structure, context and meaning of the periods, the different theories that best characterize them and the texts and works of the referred authors are explained, placing them in a critical perspective.
