14. General Objectives

The general objective is to contribute to the development of the analytical capacity of International Relations (IR) students. It is intended to provide them with in-depth knowledge of concepts, issues and topics of study in the discipline.

15. Specific Objectives

The specific objective is to encourage students to carry out a scientific analysis of the Sociology of IR, looking in a structured way at phenomena such as Globalization, Terrorism, Energy Security, among others.

16. Skills to be acquired

Students should acquire analytical skills regarding the study of International Relations, looking at current issues from a structured, scientific perspective. Students should also be encouraged to understand the importance of specific IR phenomena and their applicability in political analysis.

17. Teaching Methodology

Structured debates on a theme previously defined and presented by the students. Promote weekly monitoring of international events. Elaboration of succinct comments on specific topics. Stimulate students regarding the practice of scientific research and guide them to carry out bibliographical research.

20. Didactic Resources

Reading books and articles.

21. Sustainability Objectives

Bearing in mind the seventeen goals of sustainable development outlined by the United Nations, it seems to us that goals 16 and 17, respectively "Peace, Justice and Effective Institutions" and "Partnerships for the implementation of the goals" are the ones that are best suited to a curricular unit with this designation and with this syllabus. In addition, objective four "Quality Education" may also be taken into account.
