14. General Objectives

The objective of the course is to address the main vectors of Portuguese foreign policy.

15. Specific Objectives

The aim is to study, through a political, economic, social and historical analysis, the reasons that motivated, and still motivate, the choices of the Portuguese rulers in matters of foreign policy.

16. Skills to be acquired

Students should know the general lines of Portuguese foreign policy, frame its different vectors, as well as have a prospective notion of the matter.

17. Teaching Methodology

Theoretical-practical classes exposing the subject and teaching-learning methods that fit into the spirit and letter of the Bologna Process.
