13. Teaching Language

English

14. General Objectives

The English module enables students to use the English language as an effective tool in oral and written communication and apply their skills resourcefully. Learning Business English corresponds to intermediate and advanced levels

15. Specific Objectives

- 1) Writing the CV and letter of application in English and attending a job interview in English;
- 2) Multimedia-aided Business Presentations;
- 3) Multimedia, cinema and photography - Vocabulary, comprehension and discussion.

16. Skills to be acquired

On the one hand, the English module facilitates adequate preparation for the prospective professional candidate whose fluency in English has increasingly become a key factor for success. On the other hand, this module enables students to compensate for linguistic weaknesses and to strengthen their language skills in topics and with vocabulary directly related to their future professional field or area of interest.

17. Teaching Methodology

The learning methods are geared towards collaboration and research on the topics discussed. Research and practise on the topics described in the content is strongly encouraged. Students are expected to acquire a good command of the English language.

18. Course Unit Program

The importance given to continuous assessment confirms a predisposition to follow the learning progress, enabling, at the same time, sorting out linguistic deficiencies in due time. Periodical tests throughout the semester help to measure the success of learning and, ultimately, to implement further learning strategies. Moreover, individual or pair work and oral presentations on professional topics anticipates future similar professional situations that require the command of the English language.

19. Assessment Methods

Attendance is regulated by Lusíada university's General Regulations of Assessment and is determining to the entitlement of continuous assessment. Two written tests and an oral assignment (individual and pair work) constitute continuous assessment. There will be a final exam (frequência), scheduled by the university services (complying with the Lusíada University's Regulations of continuous assessment).
